MINERS' SIDE OF IT.

Mitchell Before the Anthracite Strike Commission.

LENGTHY STATEMENT MADE.

Pleads Earnestly For the Betterment of His Vast Army's Condition.

URGES RECOGNITION OF THE UNION.

Claims Such Procedure Would Be Beneficial to Both Parties—Goes On the Stand and Is Examined at Length—Features of the First Sitting.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 14.—The commission appointed by President Roosevelt to arbitrate the difference existing between the anthracite mine workers and their employers began the hearing of the miners' side of the case. When the commission opened its session the only evidence before it was the preliminary statement of Mr. Mitchell and the replies thereto of the operators. After the workmen have concluded their case the operators will make their defense. It is expected that more than two weeks will be taken up in hearing both sides. Judge Gray presided. Mr. Mitchell and attorneys representing both parties to the controversy were present.

When Mr. Darrow called for the regular procedure, Mr. Wolverson asked that the miners present their case. The request was immediately carried out, and President Mitchell arose and addressed the commission. His statement contained 6,000 words.

Mr. Mitchell prefaced his statement with the hope that the commission would "succeed in establishing a relationship between the operators and the miners that will insure peace and stability in the industry for an indefinite period." After reciting the demands for increased pay for the miner, a shorter work day for the laborer, the weighing of the coal and an industrial agreement, the refusal of all of which led to the strike, Mr. Mitchell spoke as follows on the question of wages:

"Of the 147,000 men and boys employed in and around the mines, strip-pings, washeries and breakers in the anthracite coal fields, 64,072, or 43 per cent, are employed on contract or piece work, the remaining 83,000, or 57 per cent are employed by the hour, day, week or more. Of the 64,072 contract men, 37,804 are miners, and 26,268 are mine laborers.

"The work of a miner and a miner's labor is extremely hazardous; in fact it is more dangerous than employment in any other important industry in the work. The number of persons killed and injured is greater than in any other industry. Reputable insurance companies will not issue policies to this class of workmen; the risks are so great that the premiums would be prohibitive to men whose earnings are so low. The entire 20 per cent which they demand as an increase in their wages would not suffice to carry an insurance of $1,000. It seems but fair and just that wages paid these classes of workmen should be as high, if not higher, than wages paid to skilled artisans in other industries."

Reduction of Hours.

In supporting the demand for the reduction of the hours of the day laborers, Mr. Mitchell showed that it amounted practically to a demand for 20 per cent increase of compensation for 83,000 men, or 57 per cent of all mine employees. Continuing he said: "The eight hour day is the standard working day in the mining industry. Eight hours constitute a day's work in the coal mines of Great Britain, in all the silver, gold and copper mines and in all the bituminous coal mines. The reports of the United States geological survey demonstrate that more coal has been produced annually since the inauguration of the 8-hour work day than in any preceding year. Each miner produced more coal per working day in eight hours than he formerly produced in 10 hours, and there is no reason why the same results would not be obtained in the anthracite field. The bituminous workers in many instances get from 20 to 40 per cent higher wages for eight hours work than are paid in the anthracite mines for 10 hours work."

Defending the third demand that coal shall be weighed and paid for by weight and that 2,240 pounds shall constitute a ton, Mr. Mitchell declared that the present method of measuring the coal produced by the miners in the Lackawanna, Wyoming and Lehigh regions has been the source of more discontent than any other of the many injustices imposed upon miners and there can be no contentment among these workers until an honest system has been adopted. Paying for coal by the car or by a ton weighing from 2,740 to 3,190 pounds is a flagrant injustice. Mr. Mitchell said the miner should be paid for every pound of coal he mines that is sold by the operator.

Mr. Mitchell outlined the history and policy of the United Mine Workers of America, and explained that by its constitution, the anthracite and bituminous mine workers had home rule for the local government of local affairs. "The only manner," he said, "in which the national organization is permitted to interfere is that, before a strike is inaugurated by the district organization, the approval of the president of the national union must be obtained, but the president of the national organization has no authority to inaugurate a strike. Thus the coal mine operators are afforded a greater measure of protection against strikes than they would have under a separate and independent organization."

Urges Recognition.

Mr. Mitchell continued: "We demand recognition because we know that permanent peace and friendly relations can be best maintained through a trade agreement with the organization which our people have elected to join. Fully 90 per cent of the employees of the anthracite coal mines are members of it from choice, they desire to retain their membership in it. It was the United Mine Workers of America that conferred with the president of the United States, in relation to the submission of the issues involved in the coal strike to this commission; that was requested by the president to end the strike; that declared the strike at an end; that sent the men back to work; that pledged to accept the award of this commission. Failure to recognize the organization was the cause of the many local strikes against which operators and mine workers jointly complained. Recognition of the union does not mean dictation, nor interference by men, not employed by companies; it simply means that officers selected by the mine workers shall exercise supervision over the organization, or shall counsel with the mine workers as to how their trade affairs shall be conducted."

Mr. Mitchell concluded with a plea for the children. He said: "Our little boys should not be forced into the mines and breakers so early in life; our little girls should not be compelled to work in the mills and factories at an age when they should be in school. These children are the future citizens of our nation; their parents should be enabled to earn wages sufficiently high to give them at least a common school education."

Mitchell on the Stand.

Responding to a question by Judge Gray, Mr. Darrow, attorney for the miners, said he would at outset put on some witnesses and that he would call Mr. Mitchell first. Mr. Mitchell then took the stand. In response to questions by Mr. Darrow, he said that he began doing mining work as a door boy when he was 12 years old and had occupied all positions in the bituminous fields except that of foreman. He had not worked in the anthracite region. Mr. Mitchell said that 51 per cent of all coal mined in the United States, was mined in Pennsylvania, and that 90 per cent of the anthracite mine workers are members of the union.

"Has the president or executive board ever ordered a strike since they have been at the head of this organization, or since it has been in existence?" asked Mr. Darrow.

"No," was the reply, "except upon affirmative vote of the miners themselves. The officers carry out the instructions of the miners."

Mr. Mitchell, comparing the rates of wages paid in the bituminous fields with those paid in the anthracite region, said they were from 40 to 50 per cent higher in the bituminous country in some classes of work and from 20 to 30 per cent in others.

Mr. Darrow's next question brought out the first public statement made since the late strike was inaugurated, regarding the amount of aid given the strikers. Mr. Mitchell said that $1,500,000 had been distributed among the workers and that non-union men on strike had shared equally with the unionists, although they had paid no dues. Mr. Mitchell, in reply to a question, said that his organization is capable of maintaining discipline.

When the direct examination of Mr. Mitchell by Mr. Darrow was concluded, Mr. Willcox, for the operators, cross-examined Mr. Mitchell at length, regarding the general workings of the organization. Mr. Willcox read from the Mine Workers' constitution and asked if there was any provision in it which authorized the expulsion of men who violate agreements. Mr. Mitchell said that he would have that authority, because that had been the policy of the organization.

FIERCE MORO TRIBES.

Time, Tact and Patience Will Be Required to Subdue Them.

GENERAL CHAFFEE'S ANNUAL REPORT.

Believes a Money Consideration Would Appease the Sultan of Jolo. Defends General Jacob Smith.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The annual report of Major General Adna R. Chaffee, just made public, closes Sept. 30, the date when he relinquished his command of the division of the Philippines. The report covers the campaign of General J. H. Smith in Samar, refers to some friction that occurred between the civil and military authorities regarding Leyte and discusses the actions of various officers and the work of the army in the suppression of recent insurrections. General Chaffee warmly defends the officers, and assumes full responsibility for all that was done under official orders. He says that the various Filipino bands were of little military importance and in time can be handled by the insular constabulary.

Speaking of the campaign in Samar, General Chaffee says that he finds nothing in the written instructions which "was not justified by the conditions there to be overcome." General Chaffee says the formation of concentration camps was necessary to suppress the insurrection in the provinces of Batangas, Laguna and Tayabas. He asserts that the civil authorities in some instances aided the insurrectionists and says "It was found necessary to arrest and confine 300 or 400 of the intelligent class in order to remove the influence of the masters over the masses of the population."

General Chaffee requests the removal of all censure that has been passed publicly upon General Bell regarding the orders, circulars and instructions which he issued while putting down the insurrection. An interesting feature of General Chaffee's report relates to the Moros in Mindanao and Jolo. He says that it will require time, tact and patience to establish United States authority over all the Moro settlements. In this connection he says:

"The sooner the sultan of Jolo's title, actual or assumed, as sovereign, and as sole owner of land in the Jolo archipelago is quieted, the better for the situation. Probably there is little doubt that a money consideration would relieve the situation of his claim and presence; and if this be done, laws, just, but simple, and so plainly stated as to be understood by the Moro population generally, could be enforced through their dattos upon their followers without much trouble or frequent resort to force. It will be impossible for many years to ignore chieftainships—dattos—and to deal directly with the individual Moros as is done with civilized, Christian people. It will, however, be a long step ahead for the inhabitants of Jolo archipelago when the dattos are independent of the sultan and recognize the United States as the only sovereignty to which allegiance is due, and as the only authority empowered to enact laws for the government of the inhabitants and the countries; that all the inhabitants are equal before the law; that Christian people have a right to live."

General Chaffee says that force has been used only to the degree necessary to make it understood plainly that persons entitled to protection cannot be murdered and that the authority of the United States cannot be questioned. The inattention of the United States forces, he says, has been misunderstood, and the dattos believe the troops to be cowards and afraid to attack their defenses. He says force must be applied to humble their pride and assumed invincibility.

President Bear Hunting.

Smedes, Miss., Nov. 14.—The conditions were ideal Friday for the president's hunt for bear. "Bill" Ennolds reached here from the swamp country along the Mississippi river with six bear dogs, and Mr. Mangum, despite his illness, started with them for camp before daylight. With this additional strength for the pack he believed there would be enough dogs. The arrangements were that the president should start at the first peep of day, and although no word has come from the camp, it is presumed that he was off on scheduled time.

BUTLER FOUND GUILTY.

Jury Puts Away the Millionaire Politician For Three Years.

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 14.—Colonel Edward Butler, millionaire and politician of St. Louis, on trial charged with attempting to bribe Dr. Chapman of the St. Louis board of health, in order to influence his vote on the endorsement of a garbage contract with the city, has been found guilty by the jury, which assessed the punishment at three years in the penitentiary. T. H. Hickman, foreman of the jury, says the verdict was reached on the first ballot. Juror W. H. Cochran said the "jury was unanimous on guilt from the first. The testimony of Dr. Chapman followed by Dr. Merrill, was convincing. Some of the jury wanted to give Butler the limit. One man wanted to give him only a fine and jail sentence. The sentence was the hardest to decide."

When the verdict was announced all eyes were turned toward Butler. A defiant glance came to his face, then his features subsided into the expression of half disgust which he wore while listening to the testimony and arguments. Butler was asked his opinion of the verdict. He made no reply. A motion for a new trial was overruled.

The filing of an appeal bond to the state supreme court followed. Judge Hockaday fixed Butler's bond at $10,000, which were signed by a number of prominent citizens of Columbia.

Election Frauds Alleged.

New York, Nov. 14.—Two district captains in the Ninth assembly district have been held by Magistrate Barlow, in bonds of $4,500 each to answer charges of violating the election law. The evidence in the case was procured by six young collegians who volunteered their services to Superintendent of Elections McCullagh. One of the young men is said to be a millionaire. Another is a young physician and the four remaining are medical students. They claim to have made themselves noticeable around West Twenty-sixth street just before election day. Disguised as tramps they were accosted by workers, who, after becoming acquainted, disposed of them in various rooms. On election day they say they were provided with slips bearing the names of men who had registered in good faith but who had been called away. In this manner they say they voted many times apiece and for each ballot allege they received $3.

STRUCK A FREIGHT.

Royal Blue Flyer Wrecked Near an Indiana Town.

Washington, Ind., Nov. 14.—The Royal Blue Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern, St. Louis to New York, was wrecked 20 miles east of here. Several persons were injured, one probably fatally. The flyer was running 60 miles an hour and struck a freight train head-on. Both engines were smashed. The engineers tied down their whistles before they jumped. The man fatally injured was a tramp.

The passenger engine was telescoped by its heavier and lower antagonist and wreckage and debris was scattered over tracks and the right of way. The freight engine was uninjured by its heavier and slower antagonist.

Maniac and His Knife.

New York, Nov. 14.—While protecting Mrs. W. H. Gardiner of Bath Beach from the attacks of a supposed maniac armed with a long knife, three neighbors received stab wounds, one of them, John McMahon, being injured so seriously that he probably will die. Considerable mystery surrounds the affair. Mrs. Gardiner was sitting on the veranda of her home when the man entered the back door, rushed through the house and after making sure of the identity of the tenants he rushed at them with a long knife. McMahon and his son, neighbors, attempted to seize the invader. Both fell before his knife. He then fled into the Dyker Meadows, the crowd in pursuit.

Survivors Picked Up.

Wellington, N. Z., Nov. 14.—The British survey steamer Penguin has picked up a raft belonging to the British steamer Elingamite, which was wrecked on one of the Three Kings Islands, off the north coast of New Zealand, Nov. 9. On the raft were eight survivors and the bodies of eight others of the company of the wrecked vessel. The survivors are doing well.

Pennsy Advances Wages.

Pittsburg, Nov. 14.—The officials of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg, gave notice that the wages of all employees receiving less than $200 per month would be advanced 10 per cent, to meet the increase made by the eastern system of the Pennsylvania. The advance will affect about 40,000 employees.

BATTLE WITH BANDITS

Citizens of an Ohio Town Aroused at an Early Morning Hour.

RUNNING FIGHT IN THE STREETS.

Marshal of the Place Fatally Wounded and a Robber's Head Blown Off—Houses Entered and Other Depredations Done.

Elyria, O., Nov. 14.—Marshal Henry Krohn was seriously shot and an unknown burglar had his head blown off in a bloody battle here early in the morning. The shooting occurred during a fight with four robbers, who completely terrorized the town. The gang stole horses and rigs, entered several houses and shot recklessly in a wild charge down the main street of the town.

J. E. Baird was awakened by burglars in his house. He got up and saw two masked men standing on either side of his bed. Drawn revolvers were pointed at his head, but in spite of this he jumped from bed and grappled with the intruders. In the darkness they broke away and fled from the house.

The burglars then entered the home of Town Marshal Krohn, who opened fire on them. When he had shot three times, one of the robbers, who had jumped into a buggy, got out and began blazing away at the marshal. At the third shot, the latter fell with a bullet through his hips. Baird, who had meantime arrived at the scene, picked up the officer's gun and continued the firing. The robbers, however, drove rapidly away.

Mr. Baird followed them to the home of Superintendent W. J. Hillier of the Cleveland, Elyria and Western railway. Even when Baird again opened fire on the robbers, they walked into the Hillier home, after smashing in the door. The noise on the street aroused Hillier and he reached for his gun, loaded with quail shot. A burglar cautiously opened the door and Hillier blew his head off with the first discharge. The other robber turned and ran, but Hillier discharged the second barrel. The robber yelled and tottered, but did not fall. He ran into the street and disappeared. A posse was at once formed and is pursuing the robbers. Marshal Krohn is seriously and perhaps fatally wounded. It is not known how badly the other robbers are hurt. The dead robber's linen is marked "Davis." He had in his pocket a mileage book sold at Oil City, Pa., to "Mr. Davis."

Horses and Rig Recovered.

Cleveland, Nov. 14.—The horses and buggy stolen at Elyria, with which, it is supposed the burglars escaped, was found at Rockport a few miles west of this city. The Cleveland police are working on the case and hope to apprehend the burglars.

BANK CLOSED

By the Comptroller of Currency. Statements Made.

Boston, Nov. 14.—The Central National bank of this city did not open for business Friday, the comptroller of the currency having ordered the bank examiner to close its doors and take charge of its business.

The closing of the bank is said to be due to excess loans and a lack of quick assets. An appeal for aid was made to the Boston clearing house association, but the commission did not deem it advisable to assist the bank. The bank is among the smaller institutions of the city. It was organized in 1873 with a capital of $500,000. Its deposits aggregate $3,500,000 and it is believed this amount can be paid in full without an assessment on the stockholders. Otis H. Duke is president and J. Adams Brown cashier.

The failure of negotiations for the Eliot National bank, to liquidate the Central National, is understood to have contributed to the failure, as well as the fact that the bank never fully recovered from a blow it received 20 years ago, when with the Pacific bank, which failed at that time, it was involved in the collapse of the Lebanon Springs railroad in Vermont. The Central bank then lost $350,000, and an assessment of about 100 per cent was made upon the stockholders and no dividends were paid for 13 years.

His Life For the Flag.

San Francisco, Nov. 14.—John Nysbrom, a Swedish sailor on the United States army transport Sumner, sacrificed his life while attempting to save an American flag which had been torn by a gust of wind from the stern of the vessel's steam launch. He plunged into the water and secured the banner, but was caught by the strong ebb tide and drowned before he could be reached by a boat.

The Pennsylvania, one of the big railroad systems of the country, has advanced the wages of its 100,000 employees 10 per cent. In a statement to the public, the President of the road says:

"The country is passing through an unexampled period of prosperity, and, as far as the Pennsylvania is concerned, this prosperity is bound to continue for at least two years, if contracts are kept. It is time that our employees be given a share in this prosperity. All the railroads in the United States and all employers of labor are contemplating an advance in wages. The cost of living has increased 20 to 25 per cent., but wages have not increased accordingly. This movement is bound to come and the Pennsylvania may as well lead as follow. We have more business offered than we can handle, and cannot see a way out of the trouble unless we keep our men loyal to the company and help them while they help us.

A small increase is of course better than none at all, but according to this statement the employees are still 10 to 15 per cent. worse off now than before the advance in cost of living. The corporations seem to be getting more than their share of the prosperity.

"DESPOTISM."

One of the trusts which both Gov. Cummins, of Iowa, and the Chicago Tribune admits is bad, is the barbed wire trust.

Not only is it charged with being an absolute monopoly, of selling to foreigners at prices far below those charged Americans, and of getting unlawful and specially low freight rates over the railroads, but, as Gov. Cummins said in the Chicago Tribune of October 19, "it fixes not only the price the dealer must pay, but the retail price he sells it for, as well. Firms have been refused barbed wire by the trust merely because they dealt in other articles bought from independent steel companies, and they were forced to surrender."

The Chicago Tribune of October 21, quotes Gov. Cummins' statement, and adds that "This is a despotism that American citizens have submitted to with unexampled patience for an astounding length of time."

THE POLITICAL DRIFT.

Chairman Babcock, of the Republican National Committee, has "flopped" again, since the election, and is now urging a revision of the tariff. He warns Republicans that the election returns show a strong drift of the city voters to Democracy, and he attributes this to the outrageous increase by the trusts in the cost of living. "Mr. Babcock predicts," says the Lexington Herald, "that unless Congress takes some action by which the cost of living can be reduced, or that in the courts some action can be instituted by which overcapitalization is prevented, and wages increased, the Republican party in 1904 will lose the city vote. He points out that the vast majority of the voters of America who do not own their own farms depend upon fixed wages and fixed salaries, which do not change as the cost of living goes up or down. When living is cheap, these persons get the benefit of this cheapness. When the cost of living goes up they are injured by the rise. During the last five years this cost has gradually increased—not suddenly, but gradually—so that our people have become somewhat accustomed to the gradual deprivation of comforts; but finally the condition has become so marked that it is making a profound impression. That which touches the comfort of the wives and children of the laborer; that which makes him feel that he is not only not able to set aside anything for a rainy day or an emergency, but has to deprive his family of those things which have become necessities rather than comforts, arouse his attention, fixes his interest and is more important than party ties."

Judge Newell has appointed Dr. J. M. Frazee, Mr. J. H. Rice and Squires John H. Clarke, J. J. Thompson and W. B. Grant delegates to the Good Roads convention at Lexington Nov. 18th and 19th. The railroads offer a rate of one fare for round-trip on account of the convention.

BLANKETS The Good Kind, CHEAP!

Need wool blankets? Need wool mixed blankets? Need cotton blankets? Get them now and here if you want unusual values. Here is one point to remember—whatever sort of blanket you buy, rest assured we will tell you frankly what it is. If it's wool we say so, if it's half wool we tell you, if it's cotton you may depend upon learning the truth about it here.

59c. buys a ten-four white or gray cotton blanket two and one-half yards long. Many women use this grade for ironing blankets, silence cloths and cold weather sheets—cut apart and bound snugly.

$1 buys a heavier and larger cotton blanket. It is eleven four and comes in white or gray.

$1 50 buys a serviceable eleven-four blanket of excellent weight, white or gray.

$2 50 buys a better blanket same size, comes in white only.

$3 50 buys an excellent blanket—pure wool filling on light, spool cotton warp.

$5 secures our Banner Blanket—a California blanket. California leads

America in blanket making and America leads the world. There are good Eastern blankets, good Southern blankets, but blanket sumptuousness comes from California. The Mission Mills of that far Western State lead all others. Mission Blankets are sold only by us in Maysville—and they are sold very cheap since middlemen are out of the case. The Mission Banner Blanket, six pounds, 82x90, sold here at $5 can't be duplicated under $7. Few people ask anything handsomer, but should you be among the few, we have beautiful Jacquard, plaid, and all white, California, pure wool blankets for $7 50—a genuine $10 value.

The Wooltex Contest nears a close. All cards must be returned by noon Wednesday, November 26th.

D. HUNT & SON

PROMISES A SENSATION.

Editor Jim Richardson Evidently Knows All About Youtsey's Confession.

GLASGOW, Ky., Nov. 12.—Editor Jim Richardson has the following in the Glasgow Times:

"I am sitting to-night in the room of 'The Little Red Building' where the bloody murder of William Goebel is said to have been plotted and arranged; I saw the grave of the victim in the Frankfort cemetery this afternoon—still unmarked by stone or scroll and undistinguishable from hundreds of others, save by those who loved him in life and yet seek out his resting-place in death. The farther the public mind gets away from this assassination, the more brutal, cold-blooded and horrible the murder stands out. One of two things is certain: William Goebel was either killed in a cool, inhuman determination to defeat his election to the Governorship at all costs and hazards, or his murder was the culmination of a damnable conspiracy to rid the State of him, that certain interests joined hands with the Republicans in carrying to its tragic ending. Of William Goebel himself there is now left only a sorrowful memory and the duty that justice owes to the good name of the State. Out of those who compassed his death and slew the man they could neither use nor intimidate only one—a weak fool—probably the least guilty of a score—is behind the bars. But the end is not yet. Mark these words, and see what the next twelve months bring forth. The man-hunt, the assassin-hunt, the hunt for the murderers of William Goebel, has not yet really begun. Ere the snow flies before advancing spring, there will be a rattling of dry bones that will shake the Commonwealth from one end to the other, and the world will stand aghast at the horrors of the tale that is told.

Men in high places will pray for the mountains to fall upon, or flee to the mount to save them, and the long arm of stern, unrelenting justice will reach up and drag them down to the doom awaiting them, and that should be meted out to all criminals. There will be much and grave business transacted in the Fourteenth Judicial district in the next good year of our Lord, and Bob Franklin, the brilliant, eloquent prosecutor, and Judge Cantrell, the inflexible but just and able Judge, will be busy men. Praise God, they are equal to the great work before them.

THE ELECTION LAW.

Opinion of Appellate Court Construing Clause as to Placing Names on Ballots.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 13.—The Court of Appeals to-day made an important ruling in the contested election case from Todd County of Wilkins and Gill, Republicans, vs. Duffy and Mallary, Democrats.

The facts are that the Republicans of Todd County nominated a full county ticket, but their nominees for County Judge and Attorney declined to run. The Republican committee failed to fill the vacancies, and Wilkins and Gill got up petitions to have their names placed on the ballot. The statute provides that the nominees of a convention, primary or party committee are the only names entitled to go under the device of that party on the ballot. The County Clerk of Todd declined to place Wilkins and Gill under the Republican device, because they had not been nominated in any way by the Republican party, and instead put them under a separate device as Independent Republicans. After the election the Democratic nominees were given the certificates on the face of the returns, and Wilkins and Gill contested on the ground that the Clerk should have put their names under the Republican device.

The Court of Appeals decided that the Clerk acted within the law and the scope of his authority in refusing to place names of petition candidates under the device of a party that had not nominated them. Judge O'Rear wrote the opinion, and it settles an important question in elections in this State.

MORTGAGE LIENS.

Opinion of Appellate Court in Case of State National Bank Versus Vicroy.

Following is the opinion of the Court of Appeals reversing the above case:

S. died leaving three daughters. His personality was insufficient to pay his debts, and a balance of $3,300 was left as a charge on the land descended to his three daughters. Two of them instituted an action against the appellee third daughter to subject her third of the land to the payment of her part of the debt. Appellee executed her note to R. for the purpose of raising the money to pay this debt, and she and her husband executed to R. a mortgage on her land to secure this debt. R. indorsed this note, and the husband transferred it to appellant, and thereby raised the money. Later the husband gave his own note to the bank for this same money. The husband and wife separated, and this suit was brought by the bank to enforce the mortgage lien to satisfy this debt. The wife claims that the land is not liable, as the note signed by her was void; besides, the money was paid by her husband. Held—That, although the note may be invalid, the land was in lien for the original debt, and the bank having paid off same is entitled to be subrogated to the rights of the original creditors. The mortgage was executed to secure this original indebtedness, and is valid, although no valid note or account existed as evidence of same.

L. W. Robertson, C. D. Newell for appellant; E. L. Worthington, W. H. Wadsworth, L. W. Galbraith for appellees.

Rev. H. C. Bowen has received a unanimous call from the Minerva Christian Church to continue as minister another year.

At Georgetown, O., this week Mrs. Mamie Tyler Buchanan was granted a divorce from William Buchanan and given $750 alimony.

The four-year-old daughter of Martin Carroll, living on Thomas Tyler's farm in Bracken, was kicked by a horse, the blow fracturing her skull and killing her.

BRITTINGHAM STILL ALIVE.

Particulars of Deplorable Tragedy Enacted at Manchester Friday Morning.

Brief mention was made in Friday's issue of BULLETIN of the shooting of Moses Brittingham, of Manchester, by James Mastin, followed by the latter's suicide.

The trouble originated over Brittingham's attempt to collect a board bill from Mastin. The latter left Brittingham's hotel the evening before, it is learned, and returned Friday morning for his clothes. Brittingham refused to give them up until the bill was paid, and in the quarrel that ensued, Mastin shot him three times in the back.

The BULLETIN's information yesterday was that Mastin at once shot and killed himself, but later information is that he shot himself after he had been placed in jail. He died about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Brittingham was reported resting well this morning. He and Mastin are both well known in Maysville.

William Jackson, aged seventeen, was arrested at Germantown the first of the week charged with stealing $200 from an old man named Samuel Hamilton near Brooksville. All the money except $3 was recovered. Jackson is an orphan and stole the money while spending the night at Hamilton's home.

For this week only, Nov. 15th, we will take our handsome clocks out of our window, none to be sold at the low prices after Saturday.—$6.50 for $3.75, $7.50 for $4, $10 clocks for $5—never have they been sold for such low prices.

The Forty Hours Devotion closed at the Sunday morning service at the Catholic Church. "It is the little rift within the lute which, ever widening, makes the music mute." It is just a little rift in the health of a woman often which gradually takes the spring from her step, the light from her eyes, the rose from her cheek and the music from her voice. Perhaps the bug-bear which has frightened the woman from the timely help needed at the beginning has been the dreaded questions, the obnoxious examination, the local treatments, of the home physician. There is no need for these. Nor is there need for continued suffering. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can be relied on by every woman, suffering from what are called "female troubles," to renew the health and cure the disease. Women are astonished at the results of the use of this medicine. It not only makes weak women "robust and rosy cheeked," but it gives them back the vigor and vitality of youth.

Free. Dr. Pierce's People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1,008 pages, is sent free on receipt of twenty-one 1-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
